Giving TV Mast A Rocket!

In a cradle, men ascend the B.B.C.'s new 709ft.-high television transmitting tower at Crystal Palace, London, today to fix a dozen rockets to the structure at a height of 625ft. The rockets, each exerting a thrust of half a ton, were to be fired in succession as part of an investigation into the mast's aerodynamic behaviour. The object was to simulate the effect of gusts of wind of between 20 and 30 m.p.h.
